What You Need to Know

Child Safety and Pool Laws

Drowning is a leading cause of preventable death in children under five. Pool owners must comply with laws requiring secure barriers and supervision to ensure safety.

Registration, Fencing, and CPR Signage

Pools must be registered, surrounded by compliant safety barriers, and display CPR signage that is clear and in good condition.

SAFETY FIRST

Selling, Renting, and Certification Requirements

Selling or renting properties with pools requires valid compliance certificates. Inspections by councils or certifiers ensure safety standards are met. For more information, visit the Swimming Pool Register:

Pool Hazards, Electrical Safety, and More

Prevent accidents by securing cleaning systems and using safe electrical practices. New pool construction must follow strict planning and safety regulations.

For more information on pool safety, visit the NSW Swimming Pool Register or contact your local council.

Stay safe and ensure your pool complies with all relevant laws!
